

PLATED DINNERS

Plated dinners are the perfect way to elevate the dining service of your event. Guests remain at their seat, while our service staff takes care of the rest.

Plated meals can be served in as few or as many courses as you'd like. Our plated dinner packages begin at $42 per person and are served as three courses. Please request a custom quote for fewer or additional courses.

Dinners begin with rolls & butter plus iced-water set on the tables. Course one will begin with your choice of salad or soup, course two will be the entrées plated with sides, and we'll finish with dessert as course three.

Use the following pages to select items to build your own plated dinner - one salad, one entree, two sides, & one dessert.

Offering Multiple Options for Guests to RSVP

Event hosts may choose to present entrée options to their guests. Our recommendation is to present 2-3 varying entrees. Keeping in mind that the minimum of each entrée type is 10 plates to order. Exceptions to this minimum will be made for dietary restrictions.

Course two needs to be RSVP'd for as a whole. Event hosts are welcome to select different sides to pair with varying entrees, thus creating completely different plates for guests to choose between for their second course.

The host is responsible for collecting RSVP responses and identifying dietary restriction requests to communicate with the Director of Events, in writing, a minimum of 10 days prior to the event. Within 10 days, you may increase the food order if Chef is able to accommodate it, but the order may not decrease.

With variations in course two, it is crucial for service staff to be able to identify which guests are to receive which dish. The event host is responsible for providing a seating chart to the Director of Events, indicating which dishes will go where along with name cards. We recommend placing a symbol indicating plate selection on the name cards. These cards will need to be placed prior to guests arriving. If guests are selecting their own seats and name cards are being placed where they choose to sit, please allow time in the event program for our banquet team to establish a floor chart for where entrees need to be delivered.
